

Employment and Training Informational Kiosk

The San Diego Workforce Partnership has a network of four Employment and Training Informational Kiosks. Their purpose is to provide access to services to rural and underserved areas and to help bridge the digital divide.

The Kiosks provide a link to valuable job related resources including job training and career development opportunities, job market trends and employment in San Diego County, and direct access to current job listings and educational institutions. It is also a valuable tool for locating community resources and housing information.

The kiosks will:

- Provide a focused approach to obtaining needed information
- Bring valuable information to rural or underserved areas
- Increase access points for this information without need for staffing
- Use specific allowed Internet sites
- Allow for content that can be quickly updated
- Have an easy to use touch screen or keyboard entry system with printing capabilities
- Require minimum staff attention
- Require low maintenance

The project was funded by a Community Development Block Grant program and by a foundation grant from SBC Communications.

The kiosks were developed and installed by High Technology Solutions, a San Diego based company.
